RE: Federal Order Regarding Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza (HPAI) in Livestock
Guidance Concerning Movement of Lactating Dairy Cows Through an Auction Market

NOTE: USDA APHIS has published a federal order (link to order) effective April 29, 2024 requiring all lactating dairy cattle moving interstate to an auction market to have a certificate of veterinary inspection (CVI) and negative HPAI test whether going to slaughter or not.

- All lactating dairy cattle moving interstate to a livestock auction market must have a certificate of veterinary inspection (CVI) and a negative test for HPAI within 7 days of interstate movement. This is required even if the cattle are sold from the market to slaughter.
- All lactating dairy cattle moving interstate from a livestock auction market directly to a slaughter plant must have a CVI or other approved documentation (owner hauler statement link).
- All lactating dairy cattle moving interstate from a livestock auction market to a non-slaughter facility must have a CVI and a negative test for HPAI within 7 days of interstate movement.
- Out-of-state lactating dairy cattle that arrive at an auction market without a CVI and negative HPAI test may be refused or remain under quarantine at the market until negative test results are received and a CVI is issued.
